

To: Prospective Clients

Custom Computer Consulting would like to welcome all prospective clients to our company's website. We encourage everyone to browse all our services that we have to offer. You will soon discover that our website explains more in detail our service compared to others. We have taken the time to provide further description in our services; the procedures we use, and our personal recommendations. We have also given the approximate service time and the cost.

If you do find a specific service that fits your needs, or have any addition questions, please feel free to contact us.

Best regards,

Darrell Gilson
